Deering Community Center

By Dixon Stimpson

Deering is a town of scarcely 350 all-year residents. With no post office or business section, it is not even a tiny dot on most highway maps of New Hampshire. Yet along our Congregational way it is, indeed, a most famous stopping place — or, more correctly, starting place. Since 1931 Deering Community Center has been a place of revelation, renewal and fellowship for a succession of young people, laymen and ministers.

Dr. Eleanor A. Campbell, a physician and member of the Judson Memorial Church in New York City, visited the beautiful hilly woodland in 1922, and when her daughter, Elizabeth Milbank Ashford, died in 1930, this devoted woman thought of some memorial to be located in this area where she and her daughter had spent so many happy weeks. The Center is the fruition of the imagination, devotion and generosity of this inspired woman who still makes her summer home at Homestead Farm in Deering.

Deering Community Center was incorporated in 1931 with most of the board of trustees from among the ministers and religious workers who summered there.

It soon became apparent that, in terms of a long future, it would be wise to place the responsibility for the program in the hands of some official and continuing body. As a result of the fine relationship with certain Congregational ministers and secretaries, Dr. Campbell asked her board to deed the property to our denomination. The Center now has 1600 acres, including frontage on Lake Piscataquog.

This summer each student had his individual cabin. At 7:00 a. m. the rising bell was sounded. After a substantial breakfast, Matins began at 8:15 with students conducting the worship.

Forty-five-minute classes started at 8:30 and continued until noon. After a hearty luncheon, students listened to two successive sermons by other students. Each took his turn at preaching and all joined in the general criticism which had but one rule: nothing good could be said of the sermon; all faults must be noted!

After the sermons and criticisms, all retired to the library, study cabin or their own quarters for two hours of concentrated study. Then volley ball, soft, ball, swimming or hiking was the order until the dinner bell called the students and faculty members to the heavy-laden tables. At 7:45 some student led vespers. The 8:00 Assembly concluded the organized portion of the busy day. The theological discussions, informal and often quite learned, continued well into the night for many of the students.

The faculty of the school represented some of the best thinkers in their respective fields. Dr. Roger Shinn, former head of the Department of Philosophy and Religion of Heidelberg College and presently at Vanderbilt Divinity School, analyzed a variety of Christian and non-Christian philosophies in an attempt to discover Christianity's distinctive conception of history and the few constant themes running through it from Biblical times to the present. He was exceptionally effective in presenting the viewpoints of Barth, Kirkegaard, Niebuhr, Kant and other more modern theologians and philosophers.

Dr. B. Davie Napier, former chaplain and chairman of the department of religion of the University of Georgia and now associate professor of the Old Testament of Yale Divinity School, lectured on the essential unity underlying the mixed strands of Old Testament thought and belief.

Dr. Brown Barr, Associate Professor of Preaching, Yale Divinity School, conducted the class on sermon-making. Dr. Barr stressed the importance of writing and rewriting every sermon in order to express the purpose clearly and interestingly and avoid cliches and over-used words, phrases and sentences.

Dr. Robert Spike, Director of Department of Evangelism of the Board of Home Missions, lectured on worship and the Liturgy of the Word and the Liturgy of the Upper Room. The central aim of worship is the lifting of the soul of man into the presence of Almighty God, that God may be glorified and the soul made holier by love, both given and received. Dr. Spike encouraged the students to give more thought to the order of worship and to the various aids to worship, including the symbolism of the table, the offering and certain actions pertaining to the proper conduct of worship. He warned against the over-exaltation of the minister and the sermon.

Dr. Wesley A. Hotchkiss, director of Town and Country Department of the Board of Home Missions, led a class in the problems of regionalism and the culture peculiar to each type of community. He pointed out the need for each church to study itself and its community in respect to the age brackets of its members, its location and the possibilities for growth and community influence.

The evening assembly periods were used for lectures by missionaries, speakers from Union Theological Seminary

General Council Moderator

George B. Hastings, an attorney of Grant, Nebraska, was elected Moderator of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches — the highest elective office of the denomination.

Mr. Hastings has been an active member of the Grant Congregational Church for 50 years. He is also a director of the Board of Home Missions and chairman of the American Missionary Association.

He graduated from Crete Academy, Crete, Nebraska, and Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio. He received his law degree from Harvard Law School in 1916.

Mr. Hastings has served as county attorney of Perkins County and city attorney of Grant. He was president of the Nebraska State Bar Association and the Southwest Nebraska Bar Association. Currently he is a member of the Supreme Court Advisory Committee and the Appellate Grievance Committee.

After serving two terms as State Senator, Mr. Hastings was named a member of the Nebraska State Fish, Game and Forestation Commission and remained five years on that body.

Mr. Hastings is a member of the Board of Trustees of Doane College, Dillard University, and Talladega College.

General Council Ministers

Dr. Douglas Horton (left), who served the General Council as its minister and secretary for 18 years and who resigned last July to become the Dean of Harvard Divinity School, is shown congratulating his successor, Dr. Fred Hoskins. Dr. Hoskins is a graduate of Illinois College and the Divinity School of Yale University. He leaves the pastorate of First Congregational Christian Church of Oak Park, Illinois, to become the minister and secretary of the denomination.

Book of Worship for Free Churches", which is widely used among Congregational Christian and other free churches in America.

Within his denomination, Dr. Hoskins is an associate member of the Council for Social Action and a corporate member of both the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions and of the Board of Home Missions. He is a former Moderator of the Connecticut Conference. Dr. Hoskins is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Illinois College, and vice-chairman of the Board of Directors of Chicago Theological Seminary.

Watch For New Magazine

Beginning in October, the Missions Council will publish a new magazine entitled Mission Today, which will take the place of both Facts from the Field and the Envelope Series. It will be issued six times a year, every other month.

The aim of the magazine will be to keep Our Christian World Mission alive in every one of our churches, and to enlist the wholehearted support of all our members for the mission program.

The publication will be directed particularly to ministers and others in the local churches and conferences who are concerned with stewardship and missionary education. It will include facts, personal interest stories and interpretation of our mission work at home and abroad, as well as program plans and ideas, news about materials that are available and promotional projects that have proved successful.

Three copies of Mission Today will be mailed to all ministers, and additional copies may be requested. If you are an association or conference chairman of Stewardship or Missionary Education, or a local church chairman, do send a card to the Missions Council, 14 Beacon St., Boston 8, Mass., and ask them to put your name on the mailing list.

GRASS ROOTS CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

The Student Summer Service program, under the direction of the Rev. Annie R. Campbell, is over for this year, and our five workers are back in their various schools and colleges: Millard Fuller, Steveta Green, Audrey Stoughton, Geraldine Beckham and Phoebe Pemberton. The latter two worked part-time as assistants as they were needed.

From the churches where they taught their vacation Bible schools, we have had letters from pastors and church clerks telling about the success of the school and saying how much the young people were liked and appreciated and what wonderful work they did.

This is especially gratifying to the Convention office and staff, because the young people who serve through the Student Summer Service program could make two to three times as much money doing other kinds of work — and in most cases they really need the money to help with their college training. But they chose to serve the churches of the Southeast Convention instead. Also, in any other kind of job they would have had a 40-hour, five-day week. SSS workers have a seven-day week, and their hours depend upon what extra things in the way of PF organization or recreation that the church wants them to do while there. They teach five days a week, travel on to the next school, meet with the pastor and those who will assist with the teaching and plan the school which begins the next day, usually. We sometimes wonder how they have time for the washing and ironing, packing and unpacking, and the making out of voluminous reports they must send in to the Convention office. Too, they must be constantly shopping to replace materials for handicrafts used as they go from school to school.

They taught a total of 17 schools, served as counselors at three camps, and did much work with the young people towards Pilgrim Fellowship organization and program.

Our hats are off to our "disciples in dungarees", and our heartfelt thanks for a summer of work and fun and inspiration in the churches of the Southeast Convention.

John Keith Benton

In Memoriam

The many former students and friends of Dr. John Keith Benton were saddened to hear of his recent death. He was a theologian, gentleman and scholar, and on him all three looked good. His pastorate was made up of ministers, since he trained young men for the ministry in the Vanderbilt Divinity School.

Dr. Benton was always most cooperative in making it possible for his staff personnel to share in our convocations and conferences. He was very much interested in the work of the Congregational Christian churches within the area, and has been a good friend of Congregational Christian students who have attended Vanderbilt through the years.

He served for many years on the Board of Directors of the old Atlanta Seminary Foundation and, since its reorganization, as the Congregational Christian Foundation of the Divinity School at Vanderbilt. Under his leadership the Divinity School has initiated a long-range plan of expansion and development and recently become a member of the newly created C. C. Council of Theological Schools.

Warren Hathaway Denison

1870 - 1956

In Memoriam

"I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith".

II Timothy 4:7

On August 27 Dr. Warren H. Denison passed away suddenly and unexpectedly at his home in Grinnell, Iowa. To his host of friends in the Southeast Convention, as well as those across the country, this is indeed a great personal loss. Many of us have had the privilege of knowing Dr. Denison well; through the years he has been in our area on numerous occasions. He has been the guest speaker at our Annual meeting. He conducted a course on Christian Stewardship at our Minister's Convocation May 3-7, 1954, and has attended many Association and Conference meetings. At several of our churches he conducted an Every Member Canvass, the last one being at East Tallassee Liberty this past May 20-26.

Occasionally Dr. Denison would write special messages to those working in Christian Stewardship. I would like to quote extensively from one he wrote this summer:

Guiding People in Their Giving

"What shall I give? Of course we cannot tell anyone how much he should give, but we cannot stop there; we are under obligation to create an atmosphere in which one shall more nearly come to a Christian decision. It is easy to hand him a card of percentages as a secular approach. Such a commercial approach, to my mind, does not meet our stewardship responsibility for a spiritual challenge. It may be an easy way, but not a stewardship way to produce real givers. Let it be remembered that those to whom we go are Christians, church members. They have consciences and want to do right; they are intelligent and have good judgment; they have a sense of duty to God, family, others; but cares, business, other responsibilities have rather covered these up with the dust and dirt of time. To me there seems our high privilege to bring them a spiritual appeal to a high stewardship plane—such as thinking anew what the Church means to them, their family, community, world, its ministry, worship, training, etc.; such as, that the Church primarily spells the difference between heathenism and a Christian civilization; that too, we are stewards, in partnership with God, accountable; also that the scriptures teach from first to last that our giving is a religious act, a matter of worship and that it is to be as the 'Lord prospered us'.

Christian Tithing

"There is an increasing emphasis on tithing, and rightly so, for it has been under-emphasized. From various sources it appears to be stressed as a money-raising method. Of course if most of our people would tithe there would be no lack of funds to meet the needs for Christian work; but to me that is not at all the purpose of the tithe, and as teachers of Christian Stewardship, if I am correct, we shall need to watch the emphasis carefully or it may become a legalistic, financial matter. My study and understanding is that the tithe was established from the very beginning for a far more noble purpose than raising money, important as that is. Through the tithe idea God was asserting his sovereignty and ownership over all possessions and by tithing, then man acknowledges that ownership and sovereignty, and this was a principle, a law from the beginning, not something for some period of time, some particular nation, some class, group, financial condition. It was not an Old Testament vs. New Testament matter. It was the same as setting aside one day out of seven as sacred and holy, thus acknowledging God's sovereignty over our time. Tithing and the Sabbath were neither Mosaic or Jewish only. They were for their ancestors, for them, for us and those coming after us.

"In the material world Newton, Edison, Orville Wright and others did not originate the laws of gravity, electricity, airplane. They were from the beginning. These merely formulated the laws. Just so, my understanding is that tithing is a spiritual law, like the natural laws above, under which you and I must live, work and teach, are eternal laws and not for a time or a particular nation. Thus tithing is a wonderful spiritual law which a few are beginning to appreciate. If they are not understood, we neglect them or disobey them and suffer accordingly."

Memorial Fund

A Memorial Fund has been established in Dr. Denison's memory. He had many interests, but three were particularly dear to his heart and the family has selected three Congregational Christian projects to which gifts may be sent:

1) Defiance College, one of his "first loves" and where he has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1910.

Rev. Wasson Named Head Of Southern Union College

The Rev. Douglas Wasson has been named acting president of the Southern Union College at Wadley, Ala., according to the Rev. Joe A. French, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The young administrator came to Southern Union in September 1955 as professor of history and director of public relations. His work in the latter field expanded so rapidly that in February, 1956, he was appointed full-time director of admissions and public relations. He will serve in his present capacity until further action is taken by the Board at its annual meeting next spring. Wasson succeeds the Rev. Clyde C. Flannery, who resigned August 1 to accept the pastorate of the Brookmeade Congregational Christian Church in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Wasson is from Velva, North Dakota. He received his secondary training in North Dakota, with a brief interim in Connecticut. At the age of 16 he had completed his high school and was licensed minister of the Methodist Church, serving as pastor of three rural churches near the Canadian border.

Working his way through college, he attended Jamestown College, Jamestown, North Dakota, in 1944-45 and at the same time was elected head of the youth organization of the Methodist church for the state. He went on to the State Normal and Industrial College at Ellendale, graduating from the junior college division in 1946. He was also assistant pastor of the Ellendale church. He had to interrupt his educational career for two years because of finances and served the interim as minister of the First Methodist Church, Plankinton, South Dakota, where he was also a volunteer chaplain at the State Training School. During this same period, he was elected to a two-year term as chairman of the youth section of the National Council of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Mr. Wasson enrolled at Adelbert College of Western Reserve University in 1948 and received a B. A. degree in 1950. He graduated from Oberlin School of Theology with a B. D. degree, and was selected by the faculty as the winner of the Thomas Graham Award in Homiletics. During his graduate training at Oberlin, he served several churches.

Since leaving seminary, Mr. Wasson has served as assistant to the superintendent of the Pittman Community Center, near Gatlinburg, Tenn. Both in 1955 and 1956 he has been a member of the team for the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, a project of the National Council of Churches.

Active and interested in public affairs, Mr. Wasson has been increasingly sought for speaking engagements in high schools, service clubs and religious groups in Alabama and Georgia. He is chairman of the youth committee of the Council of the Southern Mountains, Inc.; a member of the American College Public Relations Association; a member of the Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers; a divisional officer in Kiwanis International and a member of the Wadley Congregational Christian Church.

The young college official, celebrating his 29th birthday this August, will be united in marriage to Miss Jean Legg of Cullman, Ala., early in 1957.

Langdale Minister

The Rev. Carroll W. Lewis has been very busy indeed since his arrival on June 10, when he assumed the pastorate at Langdale. He came to Alabama from Georgetown, Ill.

Mr. Lewis graduated from Greenville College, Greenville, Ill., with an A. D. degree in 1953. He attended Butler School of Theology in Indianapolis, Ind., and has done pastoral work in Illinois for the past eight years.

Mr. Lewis' family consists of his wife, Elinor, and two children — Nancy, aged seven, and Kathy, aged four.

People And Places . . .

The Rev. Charles Bell and his family have moved to Roanoke, Ala., to serve the Lowell Church.

The Rev. Raymond Berry has resigned his pastorate at Andalusia Antioch Church, as of October 18.

The Rev. Leroy McClendon has resigned the pastorate of Mt. Creek Union Church.

The Rev. W. C. Carpenter has resigned the pastorate of Douglas First Church effective in October.

The Rev. R. Henry Abbott has accepted a call to Tallassee Mt. Olive Church.

National Youth Council

The National Youth Council of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, held Aug. 19 - 24 in Salisbury, North Carolina, was a rich and rewarding experience. Meeting at beautiful Catawba College, this fourth national meeting of the youth of the E. & R. Church proved to be a particularly interesting experience to the fraternal delegates from the Congregational Christian Churches. It gave us an opportunity to see, firsthand, what the youth fellowship was doing; and, furthermore, what they proposed to do in the future. We observed —and we liked what we saw.

Of the many things about National Youth Council which are outstanding and impressive, the one single aspect that stood out most in my mind was the free-flowing fountain of inspiration.

As a note of comparison between the PF and the YC national councils, I noticed a great deal of similarity in intent and purpose of the meetings, with a basic difference in procedure. The National Youth Council attempted to formulate policy and program from the ground up. This was accomplished by devoting the first two days of the Council to a review of the past two years and to practical experience in various areas of concern. Then in the days following, discussion was the order of the program, with everyone getting in on the show. The PF, on the other hand, devoted a greater part of its program to speakers, panels and presentations of one type or another by various groups. In so doing, the National PF delegate was somewhat more of an observer than an actual participant — although each delegate had the opportunity of speaking to any motion.

There were other minor differences, but basically we, the Pilgrim Fellowship and the Youth Council, are already one. We have identical statements of purpose, and the same three commissions: faith, action and fellowship.

Indeed, I look forward to the day when we shall finally and formally be joined, in unity, to the New Day that is in Christ Jesus.

—Millard Fuller, SEC representative to the E. & R. Youth Council

Pilgrim Fellowship

The Pilgrim Fellowship officers and commission chairmen of the Southeast Convention met in Central Church, Atlanta, Sept. 1-2 for a planning session.

Millard Fuller, past president, was also present for the meeting in an advisory capacity.

Each commission chairman had held a meeting of his commission previous to this meeting, to draw up the year's program. These programs were submitted, discussed and approved and will be mimeographed by the Convention office and distributed later in the year.

Also on the order of business were tentative plans for the Convention-wide PF meeting next spring. A committee from Central Church, including Dr. Thos. Anderson, the pastor, met with the group, since the 1957 meeting will be held in Atlanta Central Church in March. The exact date will be announced later.

The Faith Commission, Sandra Ellerbee chairman, met during the Georgia Family Conference at Waycross for discussion, and again in Atlanta on Aug. 28, with Sandra, James Hodnett of Chipley and Martha Starrett of Atlanta present. We are sorry we have no picture of this committee at this time.

Since the church was without a pastor on that Sunday, the young people and the Rev. Miss Annie R. Campbell were asked to tell about the work of the young people, instead of the usual morning service.

ship met at Beulah Church in Wadley on July 29, with 46 present.

The Beulah PF began the rally with a cordial welcome, the Roanoke Lowell PF had the devotional, and the Rev. W. Raymond Berry preached the sermon.

A fellowship hour was led by V. R. Dobson of Lanett, and V. R. gave a report from the National Council PF meeting in Doane, Nebraska.

Refreshments were served by the Beulah PF, and Alexander City Hunt PF gave the closing worship service.

The rally was honored with the presence of the Work Campers from Southern Union College.

CENTRAL ALABAMA DISTRICT RALLY

The Pilgrim Fellowship of Central Alabama District held its rally Aug. 26 at East Tallassee Liberty Church. The purpose of the meeting was to install officers. After the business session, the Rev. Herbert Long conducted a communion service.

The PF of East Tallassee Liberty Church had as their project in August "Operation Memeograph". They did odd jobs, earning $31.50 towards the purchase of a much needed mimeograph machine for the church. The Woman's Fellowship plans to raise the remainder of the funds needed.

We entertained the young people of Mount Olive Church on Aug. 22 with a soft-ball game and refreshments, having a lot of fun and fellowship together.

One of the goals for the SEC Pilgrim Fellowship is contributions to the Building Fund of Southern Union College. Andalusia First PF contributed the first $40 (1,000th of the cost of the new dormitory) on Aug. 6. Mrs. O. C. Graves, Mrs. Scott Morris Jr., Homer Linzey, and J. C. Harris Jr. are sponsors.

GEORGIA-SOUTH CAROLINA WOMAN'S RETREAT

Miss Jacklyn Blake was the featured speaker at the Woman's Retreat of the Georgia-South Carolina Woman's Fellowship, held at Laura Walker Camp near Waycross, Ga., Aug. 23-24. Miss Blake's parents are co-principals of a girls' school in Turkey, and Jacklyn was born there. She is entering Oberlin College for study this fall.

Jacklyn told many interesting things about the life and customs of Turkey, showing a number of beautiful hand-woven articles of apparel and unusual pieces of Turkish jewelry. And the slides shown following the banquet made the women feel they had paid a visit to the Near East.

Informative and inspirational messages were presented by the Rev. Douglas Wasson, Acting President of Southern Union College; Rev. W. A. Blankenhorn, Rev. Peter Doherty and Rev. W. C. Carpenter.

Mrs. Gordon gave her impressions of the General Council meeting held at Omaha, Nebraska, last June. She was a delegate to the General Council from the Southeast Convention. Miss Audrey Stoughton of Minnesota, camp counselor and Student Summer Service worker, was also at Omaha. She explained to the women the function of the United Student Fellowship which serves young people of college age beyond Pilgrim Fellowship.

Two missionary skits taken from packet materials were presented.

The women of Waycross served a delicious banquet Thursday evening. The table was made festive with southeast Asia place mats showing the many everyday products we use that are produced by the peoples of southeast Asia.

During the business sessions, it was voted to change the Constitution to enable the fellowship to follow the national pattern by having standing committees for the six areas of concern. Chairmen appointed were as follows: Stewardship and Woman's Gift, Mrs. E. P. Wildes of Waycross; Evangelism and Spiritual Life, Mrs. Dixon Stimpson of Pearson; Christian Education and Family Life, Mrs. Oswald Vickers of Ambrose; Missionary Education, Miss Bernice R. Peace of Columbus; Christian Social Action, Mrs. Frank Simmons of Atlanta; Friendly Service, Mrs. E. T. Alsaker of Atlanta.

The place and time of next year's meeting was discussed, and it was recommended that a central location be selected, since only four of the 22 women attending came from outside the south Georgia area.

Mrs. Gordon announced her resignation as president, as she and Mr. Gordon will be moving to Tucson, Arizona, this fall. The vice-president, Mrs. H. Y. Sears of Pearson, will assume the duties of president until the conference meets in 1957.

Although the attendance was smaller than desired, the spirit of fellowship could not be surpassed.

Evangelism And Spiritual Life

THAT GOOD PART (Luke 10:38-42)

The story of Mary and Martha has always been a favorite with women. Since our Sunday School days, we have loved to ponder the old questions: What would we have done? Which would we have been? Now in our everyday world, company for supper means one thing to most of us. A visiting preacher can be mighty hungry. But still, how many of us have fixed the biscuits and cut up the chicken with one ear strained to the good talk going on in the parlor?

While under such circumstances we are unable to escape the yoke of Martha, there are other times when we should be following the example of Mary. Take a familiar instance — our Women's Fellowship meetings, far too much taken up with the housekeeping of the church. Our Woman's Gift is a great leveler among the crying needs of our missionary effort all around the world, and in addition most of our groups finance local projects and literally maintain order and beauty in the church itself. All of this is important and our thoughts focus around our material accomplishments, but is it the one thing needful? Are we neglecting that good part which supports and sustains all else? What is the real purpose of our Women's Fellowship? I feel that our Fellowship should exist primarily to help each woman to grow spiritually. True, we grow spiritually through missionary education and through social action. But behind these things we need Bible study and shared devotional experience. The emphasis at our meetings is primarily business rather than the search for God which is our reason for being. We all know that our lives directly reflect our nearness to His presence. Whether we are close to Him or far away is clearly revealed for all to see. Is it not the same with our Women's Fellowship? If we succeed or fail, if we go forward and accomplish, if we fulfill our purpose, is it not in the same measure by which we give God the central place in our fellowship? We must believe that the power and love of God are greater than all the forces which tend to reduce our days to a ceaseless muddle of things to be done.

The devotional part of our program must be given first place. Too often this is skipped over or slighted by women who have little recourse to reference books and are shy about putting forth their own views and experiences. As Congregational Christians we are firmly committed to the belief that all truth is not yet known. In some churches God is thought to reveal himself only to bishops or only to men, but we are thankful to know that if we knock, it shall be opened even unto us.

Let us remember also that where two or three are gathered together in His name, there He will be in the midst. Let us, with God's help, never forget that He is at our missionary meetings, and let us devote our time and our energies to becoming better acquainted with Him.

Warren Denison . . .

This college in Defiance, Ohio, faces many pressing immediate needs.

2) Mayflower Home, Grinnell, Iowa, a retirement home for older Congregational Christians. It is located next to Dr. Denison's apartment in Grinnell.

3) Yankton College, Yankton, S. D., of which Dr. Denison's son-in-law is president, is now launching its expansion program.

Gifts designated to the Denison Memorial Fund may be sent to the Congregational Christian Conference of Iowa, 923 Seventh Ave., Grinnell, Iowa, where they will be divided among the three projects, unless otherwise designated. Or gifts may be sent direct to any one of the three institutions.

Again, I would like to quote Dr. Denison's own words — from his Christmas letter to his friends:

"On the 6th of this December (1955) I will have been preaching 64 years; and on December 13th I shall have been ordained to the gospel ministry 59 years. I have had the high privilege of working in the churches of our fellowship in 43 states. Among my highest joys is that of visiting in so many hundreds of our homes, humble and elaborate, counseling with our young ministers, sharing their problems and their successes. One of my high honors has been to see some of our fine men give themselves to the teaching of real Christian stewardship in our fellowship. I fought for seven years to avoid the Christian ministry, and now I would like to say to my young friends, if I had a dozen lives to live over, I'd give them to the Christian ministry and its allied work. My! it is great to live and work with and for Him."

We mourn the loss of one of our truly great men, but are most thankful for his glorious life, his peaceful passing and the rich heritage in Christian stewardship which he leaves to us all.

Denominational Year Book

In this issue of the Southeast News we are reproducing the four pages of statistics on churches of the Southeast Convention as they appear in the denominational Year Book. If it is found that this is helpful, we can do it each year.

Please look over the figures for YOUR church. If there are two little straight marks in front of the "total membership" figures, it means that we did not receive from the church the denominational report blank mailed out last December. (24 churches are so marked) In some cases we have had to use the same figures over and over for several years. It is the duty of the minister and church clerk to fill in the Year Book report blank each year so that we may have, for all of us, including the national officials, a clear picture of progress made during the year.

The Pilgrim Fellowship officers tell me that they have many more PF groups listed than we show in the Year Book figures. Please make a special effort this coming December to list each PF group in your church with its membership. The young people deserve to be included in this national denominational report.

We need to know, too, the number in Sunday School; and the adult groups, such as women's missionary societies, laymen's fellowship, and Bible study groups. Often this is left blank.

You may think, "These are just figures, and not important". But the figures stand for something that is most important — the progress of your church. The Congregational Christian denomination is compared with other denominations on the basis of these figures.

This December, when you receive the usual letter and Year Book report blank, PLEASE make a special effort to fill in all the blank spaces. If you don't know the answers, ask those who May take away or mar that gift of Thine.

Shelter those, dear Lord, who bear me company,

From the evils of fire and all calamity.

Teach me to use my car for others' need, Nor even miss through love of speed

The beauties of Thy world; that thus I may

With joy and courtesy go on my way.

Georgia Family Camp

The Rev. W. C. Carpenter, dean, declared that this year's summer camp was the "best ever". He was high in praise for all the counselors, and singled out the Misses Audrey Stoughton, Steveta Green and Jackie Blake for special commendation.

The camp business manager, Rev. Edward Knight, had to overcome many obstacles in preparing for the camp. He had to borrow chairs, get a piano, run extension cords, etc., to make the camp serviceable and comfortable. How well he did his work was attested by the complete lack of complaints.

The camp had representation from 15 churches — five from Central Georgia, eight from South Georgia, and two Alabama churches were represented by counselors and staff. About 60 campers were present.

The Rev. Warren Blankenhorn, assistant dean, made handsome trophies for presentation to the two outstanding campers — a boy and a girl. Campers were judged by the point system on cooperation and interest. Winners were as follows: Walter Bazemore and Shirley Bass. Connie Stimpson and Christiane Moseley were second and third for the girls; James Hodnett and Billy Long for the boys. Honorable mention went to Helen Day, Sandra Hodnett, Laura McLaughlin, John Vickers, Terry Joe Lasseter and Claud Thompson.

Student Council officers were elected as follows: John Vickers, Margie Bell and James Hodnett.

The camp chaplain, the Rev. Douglas Wasson (acting president of Southern Union College, conducted exceptionally fine chapel and vesper services, inspiring to every camper regardless of age. His absorbing stories required each listener to think intelligently and arrive at his own conclusion and held the attention of all.

do. Let's try to have 100% reports this year, so we will have complete figures and statistics and show progress we can view with pride when the next Year Book is printed.

The Year Book is sent to all active ministers free. Any church clerk may have one by sending a card to the Year Book Dept., 287 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, New York. The charge is $1.00. You will find much helpful information in the book.

Churches With Histories

MOUNTAIN CREEK UNION

Many years ago when this community was young, probably in the 1870's, there were three religious bodies here: the Congregational, the Methodist, and the Baptist.

There stands the frame-work of an old, decayed church today over in the Lake settlement which brings to memory the old Ruhamia Methodist Church. At that time there was no Congregational Church building.

There were so few Methodists that finally they no longer held regular church services and abandoned their church; but Methodists and Congregationalists both felt the need of regular services and, with the help of three preachers, they worked together in the founding of a new church. These preachers were the Reverends Cas Culver and Doc Wells, Congregationalists; and the Rev. Wingard, Methodist.

In all probability, these two religious groups decided to unite and form an independent church—hence it was known as a "Congregational - Methodist Church". We have reason to believe that is how the name "Union" came to be applied.

In 1882 Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lake deeded to the Union Church an acre of land for the erection of a building. A frame building was put there and it is generally supposed that later pastors were Reverends Culver, Millstead and Heath. Records show that in 1901 the church ceased to be an independent Congregational-Methodist Church by entering the Congregational Christian denomination.

By this time the community had grown so that the church was no longer centrally located. So, by the untiring efforts of Mr. Jack Johnson and the Rev. Archie Heath, pastor at that time, the church was moved to its present site. The land on which it stands was deeded to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson and the dedication sermon was preached the first Sunday in October, 1904, by the Rev. John Crouson from Calera. There were 70 members on the roll.

At this point in the church's history it is appropriate to mention something of the faithful efforts of a Godly man, Mr. Jack Johnson, who constantly stood by the church. He was an ordained deacon and the Sunday School Superintendent for 40 years. Not only was he a spiritual pillar of the church, but the financial backer. The memory of Uncle Jack Johnson will live long in this church and community.

Soon after the church was established on its present site, an organ was purchased and the first organist was Miss Fannie Bell Headly. Mr. Sam Headly was song director. Some of the members disapproved of the organ for quite a while.

Some of the pews and the stand in the pulpit were moved from the old church, the stand being the original one of the old Ruhamia Methodist Church.

Pastors through the years have been the Reverends Jesse Butler, A. J. Holman, J. C. Hunt, N. A. Long, J. E. Coch, George Watson, Marion Dopson, Calvin Nelson, J. I. Barker, Luther Ballou, M. L. Thrasher, Coburn, Collie Seymour, M. D. Morgan, M. O. Worley, and Otto Culpepper.

Our present pastor, the Rev. Leroy McClendon, is a young man who started out in the ministry about one year ago. He is a student at Southern Union College.

When the Congregationalists merged with the Christian denomination, the full legal name of the church became "the Union Congregational Christian Church." It is known, however, in the association and Convention as "the Mt. Creek Union Church".

Two Sunday School rooms were added to the church in 1924. A recreation hall for use in church activities is almost completed. Mr. and Mrs. Edd Esco deeded to the church this year the acre of ground on which this building stands.

The first Homecoming service was held the fifth Sunday in July, 1954, and it was then decided to make this an annual event. So far, the revival has been held the following week each year, and every Homecoming Day gets bigger and better.

WEDOWEE NOON DAY

In a progressive community called New Hope, some 5 miles east of Wedowee, Ala., is a friendly little church named Noon Day. This church was organized at an old dwelling near the beautiful home of Rev. Wallace Reaves on July 26, 1899, according to the records. There were some 12, or near that number, as charter members. If I remember correctly (from information handed down by my mother and father) the Rev. Dock Elder organized this church. Services were held in the New Hope school building until a church could be erected. At the present time two of the charter members are still living. One is Mrs. J. F. French, mother of the Rev. Joe A. French of Lanett.

At least four fine young men, and perhaps others, who were members of this church answered the call to preach, and two of these are sons of one of the still living charter members. All of these men are doing full time work in churches away from here, and have been called back at least one time each to hold a revival in this church — with one exception — the Rev. J. F. French, who was pastor of Noon Day at the time of his death.

Not only have preachers gone out from this church, but very soon a daughter of one of the Deacons will leave for another country to do missionary work.

Now many good things could be said of many other small rural churches — and this is not to discredit them, but to use Noon Day as an example of the good influence and character building of a small country church.

The Headland Parish, consisting of three churches — Blackwood, Clio and Christian Hill — is making good progress under the leadership of the Rev. Earl Hand.

During the past year about 30 new members have been received into the Blackwood Church, and there is a good outlook for the future.

Max Long, of the Christian Hill community, has dedicated his life to the ministry and is planning to attend the Convocation and Training School for Ministers this fall.

The summer activities of the East Tallassee Liberty Church have ended, and we are making plans for a great year ahead.

During the summer we held a Vacation Bible School with the theme "Crusade for Christ". With Mrs. G. F. Logan as director and an able staff of teachers the school, held May 27-June 1, was the best we've ever had. Enrollment was 96 with an average attendance of 78. Those who served as teachers were: Kindergarten — Mrs. Herbert Long, Mrs. Rudolph Taunton, Mrs. Charles Cullan, Mrs. Howard Griggs and Mrs. Robert Scroggins; Primary — Mrs. J. W. Sayers, Miss Betty Sue Blakey, Bobby J. Pemberton; Junior — Mrs. Floyd Carmack, Mrs. Willie Stalnaker, Miss Phoebe Pemberton; Young People — Mrs. Marrell Rhodes and Miss Jerry Beckham.

The closing exercises were held at the Sunday School hour of 9:45 a. m. the following Sunday.

Preceding the school, the church participated in the city-wide VBS parade held on May 18 and sponsored by the Tallassee Ministerial Alliance. Our pastor, the Rev. Herbert Long, is vice-president of the Alliance. We had a school queen, Miss Deanna Cullan, who rode on one of the floats along with her court and represented Queen of the Court in the "Crusade for Christ". Approximately 16 churches with 800 children participated in the parade, which ended at our church, where cold drinks were served to all through the courtesy of the Ministerial Alliance.

Dr. Warren H. Denison conducted an Every Member Canvass for our building fund campaign the week of May 20-26. This was a wonderful experience for our church congregation — one that we probably will not experience again. Pledges were received over a three-year period for the building fund. The laymen of the church conducted the canvass, after a week of instruction and planning under the able and inspired leadership of Dr. Denison.

The young people of the church held their annual three-day camp at Lake Martin June 8-10. Mrs. Marrell Rhodes served as director, along with the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Long, Miss Willa Durden, and Mrs. Miriam Fralic, adult advisors.

The Woman's Fellowship climaxed its year with the annual summer picnic, held at Blue Creek Inn on Lake Martin Aug. 10. The men were guests of the ladies for this event.

The Layman's Fellowship was host to the East Alabama-West Georgia Laymen's Fellowship for the quarterly meeting held on Aug. 25 at Carrville Community Building. The women of the church served a delicious meal to the 60 men assembled for the meeting, the main purpose of which was election of officers for the coming year.

We are now looking forward to a new church year and a renewed effort to do the things we need so much to do in our community. We hope to begin our building soon in order that we may provide more space for our already over-crowded and expanding church, so that we may provide facilities for wholesome and spiritual growth. With the coming of winter, some arrangements must be made to provide space for the classes which have been meeting in the bus and outside.

Our annual revival services will be held the week of Sept. 23-28 with the Rev. Earl Hand as the evangelist.

The Homecoming Services at Dadeville Elder Church on Sept. 2 were well attended, with the Rev. Donald Ross preaching the sermon.

A "mortgage burning" ceremony was held, with the Reverends Fred P. Ensminger, Donald Ross, Lynwood Hubbard and John Taylor participating.

An offering was taken during this service for the Church Builders' Club.

The Lanett Huguley Church is making progress — attendance has increased at all services, the Sunday School has grown to the extent that we must build additional space, and the church roll has been increased by 14 members.

We have installed four beautiful Memorial Stained Glass windows in the church, donated by families in memory of their departed loved ones. All the members are interested in making the church more beautiful, and we expect all the windows will soon be donated.

A study is being built for our pastor, the Rev. A. C. Nelson, as an addition to the parsonage.

We have been raising a building fund for an educational building. We have had 300 calendars printed with the picture of the church on front and all the birthdays of the church families printed inside. Advertisements were sold to business firms to pay for the printing.

There is an active Women's Fellowship which holds regular meetings and has well-planned programs. They have given a donation to the building fund. At the last meeting the following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year: Mrs. Johnnie P. Ragland, president; Miss Gladys Brand, vice-president; Mrs. Buster Raye, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Avery Brown, program chairman; Mrs. Ed Ferrell, social chairman; Mrs. S. G. Brand, contact woman; Mrs. Thelbert Brown, key woman; and Mrs. Eula Crenshaw, flower chairman.

on the programs and the pastor, the Rev. Carroll W. Lewis, will preach.

On Sept. 18 the Congregational Christian churches of the Valley met at Langdale for the area meeting on Our Christian World Mission, as a part of the Every Church Canvass.

The Women's Fellowship of the East Alabama Association will meet at Langdale Church on Sept. 30, during the afternoon and evening.

September is Loyalty Month for the church, and Sept. 30 has been designated as Rally Day for the Sunday School.

Plans are being made to remodel the chancel, and a building fund has been recommended by the Finance Committee, with the estimated cost to be about $500.

During July, the following young people attended the Alabama Young People's Camp at Southern Union College: Billy Sides, Emory Sledge, Randall Sims, Martha Lauderdale, Gladys Hearn, Jeanette Williams, Maxine Lauderdale and Peggy O'Neal.

Jimmy Lasley was one of 30 from the Valley who attended a special Boy Scout Explorer Camp in New Mexico. The camp lasted 21 days.

Patsy Yancey attended a Girl Scout Round-up near Pontiac, Mich., with 6,000 girls from all over the U. S.

A Memorial Service honoring the late Mrs. J. F. Hargrove was held at Robbins Barton Chapel on Aug. 5. The service was conducted by the Rev. George L. Day, Sale Creek, Tenn., and the Rev. James W. Davenport, Soddy, Tenn., both former pastors of the church. The Rev. James H. Williams, pastor of the Baptist Church, assisted with the service.

The Robbins Baptist Church joined us for the service, assisting with the singing. Mrs. Stacy Adams, of Decatur, Ga., sang two solos. The service was attended by many relatives and friends. A luncheon was prepared and served in the parsonage by the ladies of the church for the twenty relatives and friends who came from a distance.

After a wedding trip which included many interesting points in Florida, the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Weaver returned to the parsonage at Barton Chapel. On Aug. 20 a fellowship supper was given in their honor and many nice gifts were received from friends in the community, and members of the Barton Chapel and Glen Mary churches.

The Pilgrim Fellowship of Barton Chapel enjoyed a picnic at Cove Lake State Park on Aug. 21.

Barton Chapel will be host to one of the area meetings in the Every Church Canvass on Sept. 26.

The Rev. William Schorman and his family, of Belmond, Iowa, a former pastor of the Robbins Parish, visited in the community and Mr. Schorman preached at Glen Mary and Barton Chapel churches on Aug. 19.

Time out for discussion during Union Hill Revival. L to R: Berry Blankenborn, Thigpin, and pastor, Stimpson.

The new Worship Center of the Pearson Union Hill Church was completed in August, with the pastor, the Rev. Dixon Stimpson, working nights because of the heat. The front has three panels, for the Trinity, and the center panel has a Celtic cross with the attending circle of eternity—symbolizing the continuity of life victorious over the instrument of death.

Homecoming day was held Aug. 26, with a good attendance. Church reports were given on the past year's work and plans for the coming year announced.

The revival began the following Monday, with the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Berry of Andalusia, Ala., as the guest preachers. An effort was made to acquaint the community with Congregationalism, as well as to bring members into the Christian fellowship.

During the meeting, crosses were presented by the pastor to the following: Oldest member present, Mrs. Molly Bazemore; youngest, Wayne James; coming the greatest distance, Mrs. Raymond Mixon of Miami; one with most generations present, Mrs. W. O. James, with four.

The Garden City Church was host to the Every Church Canvass area meeting on Sept. 18.

Both Garden City and Mt. Grove churches held their revival weeks in August, with a vacation Bible school at Mt. Grove each morning and preaching services each evening.

Mt. Grove congregation met Aug. 26 and voted to have an ice-cream supper on Sept. 8 to help pay for the new roof and heating system.

The Women's Fellowship of both churches hold regular meetings, and the Mt. Grove Men's Fellowship is active with regular meetings.

The Garden City Pilgrim Fellowship entertained the Mt. Grove young people and the E. & R. young people from Cullman on Aug. 2 at the American Legion Hall. Fun, fellowship and folk games were enjoyed with about 45 present.

The Rev. Collie Seymour, pastor of both churches, conducted a morning devotional program over radio station WFMH in Cullman on Aug. 21, 23, 25, sponsored by the Cullman County Ministerial Association.

at Columbia University, faculty teams and others. Parts of all classes and assemblies were used for general discussion. These animated discussions very often brought out additional facts and enlightenment, since many of the students were well qualified in their own right.

Such students as Clarence Kilde, who often writes for our denomination; Dr. Edwin J. Koch of the Evangelical and Reformed Church; and Antonio Rivera Rodriques of Puerto Rico, a former professor, and many others contributed much to the success of the classes and assemblies.

Students from the conventions and conferences east of the Mississippi, fraternal delegates from Australia, the Philippines, Puerto Rico and the west coast, and eight ministers from the E. and R. Church made up the student body. Each added his bit to the exceptional fellowship. Faculty, students and camp family were one unit. It was not unusual for a man of the standing of Dr. Truman B. Douglas, executive vice-president of the Board of Home Missions, to seat himself, eat and exchange opinions with one as humble as I. Each one of us enjoyed the same full respect that was given to the other.

In addition to the classes and the formal programs, students were taken by chartered bus on a tour of the White Mountains. Many students climbed famous Mount Monadnock to enjoy the remarkable view from the top of the bare peak. A tour through the typical New England country churches was arranged, and each student had an opportunity to examine the beauty of Bullfinch-designed colonial churches and step into the famous wine glass pulpits.

Each Sunday evening Dr. Truman Douglas prepared an out-door picnic at Hilltop House and members of the entire Center were his guests. Dr. Douglas has some renown for his preparation of hot-dogs, hamburgers and other picnic fare.

An interesting fact noticed by everyone concerns the line-up of E. and R. and C. C.s on all matters where there was any difference of opinion. It always turned out to be about 50/50, with half the E. and R.s joining half the C. C.s, and the personnel of each group differed according to the issue. It was the accepted conclusion that no one could identify either denomination by its attitude on any matter, be it secular or religious. The wonder was that the two denominations had not united before!

The Center had no rules. Each student was there to learn and to be regenerated by the fellowship of others working in the cause of Christ. All knew the schedule, and cooperated in making the school a success. Classes and assemblies were never a chore. The tact, wit and general good humor of the instructors and their unquestioned qualifications to teach made everyone anxious to be on hand at or before the starting bell. The food was excellent, and the only complaint was the weight added to the student body (in the literal sense).

Each student became more learned and thoughtful and better prepared for his pastorate. Each student received direction and a sense of stability. All were renewed and inspired. No one could regret a moment of the three weeks. It was indeed a memorable experience.

A TRUE CONGREGATIONALIST . . .

Rev. Peter Doherty tells of the guest minister who asked, "Is it compulsory to wear a robe in this church?"

Assured that it was not, he said, "In that case I'll wear mine."

SOUTHERN UNION NEWS

Southern Union College is opening for the fall quarter with dormitory facilities for both men and women filled to capacity, and many students taking rooms in private homes in Wadley.

Several new programs are being introduced on campus, but the one causing most excitement is the return of football after nearly 25 years. Coach Earl J. Bentley is quite optimistic over his boys and a modified schedule of five games is being planned, opening about Oct. 10 with the Troy State "B" squad. Football practice began September 13.

According to the admissions office, the following Honor Scholarships have been awarded: James Hoyt Welch of Hackneyville, Ala., the son of Principal and Mrs. Hoyt Welch, given the Honor grant by vote of the high school faculty on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship and service. James Larry Newton of Greenville, Ala., is a double scholarship winner. He was selected by the Greenville school as winner of the SUC Honor Scholarship, and by Coach Earl Bentley to receive a basic Athletic Scholarship because of his superior record as a high school athlete. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Newton of Greenville. Miss Mary Helen Compton of Rutledge, Ala., was selected by the faculty of Luverne High School as SUC Honor Scholarship winner. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Compton and is an active member of the Indian Creek Congregational Christian Church. Miss Compton has also been granted a Work-Aid Scholarship valued at $275.

Three DeKalb county boys have been awarded athletic scholarships to SUC. They are Jimmy L. Browder, Donald H. Cunningham, and Frank D. Smith, all of Fort Payne.

Staff and faculty members of Southern Union College held an "at home" for students, parents, alumni and friends on Sept. 16 in the social room at Kimball Hall.

A "Bison Boosters Club" has been organized by a group of East Alabama and West Georgia men in an effort to undergird the athletic program at SUC. Arthur G. Thompson is chairman, with Audley Bruner as vice chairman. Secretarial duties fall to J. P. Phillips and fund keeper will be Jesse T. Edge.

Pilgrim Fellowship Work Camp

Kowaliga Beach: Fun and fellowship. All work and no play, you know, makes Jack a dull boy and Jill irritable.

I had a great time at the Pilgrim Fellowship Work Camp, held at Southern Union College July 22 through Aug. 4, and I am sure everyone else did too.

We worked up to six hours a day, but we had fun because we worked together. Some of the work we did was painting dormitory rooms and the recreation room, digging up an old, unused brick walkway and cleaning and stacking the bricks, excavating for a shower room, mowing and pitching hay, digging ditches, fertilizing plants, moving a car-load of cement, and laying a concrete walk.

Homer Jarvis of Alexander City and Emily Wells of Oak Ridge, Tenn., working on the excavation for the shower room.

At least every other day we went visiting: the Clegg Manufacturing Co., the Gas Pumping Co., the Alexander City Outlook Publishing Co., and the colleges at Talladega and Tuskegee. We enjoyed seeing the modern buildings at Talladega, and found the Carver Museum at Tuskegee very interesting. Some of the group were especially interested in the project on cancer research in plants there.

We attended Sunday School and church at the Wadley Church, the Wadley District PF meeting at Beulah Church and visited the Hunt Memorial Church in Alexander City.

The visit of the four young people from the "Students in Industry" program sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, brought both fun and information. This program has been held in Atlanta for the past several summers for college students.

The vesper programs we had every evening were very inspirational and enlightening. Our speakers included the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Berry, Dr. Fred P. Ensminger, the Rev. Annie Campbell, the Rev. Lynwood Hubbard, the Rev. Carl Landes, Dr. A. R. Van Cleave, the Rev. Seymour (Methodist), and Miss Annie Maynot of Paris, France, who is the sister of Mrs. David Eddy. The campers led interesting discussions on subjects such as "Teen-age Problems", "Segregation", and "Our Christian Beliefs".

The two-week work camp was sponsored by Southern Union College, the Southeast Convention P. F., and the Congregational Christian Service Committee. The Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Berry were directors, the Rev. Carl Landes was the work chairman. There were 15 campers: five from Alabama and ten from Tennessee. We only wish that more young people could have joined our group.
